Alison Ramsey is a powerhouse in the commercial real estate financing world, serving as an Executive Director at JP Morgan Chase. With two decades of experience, Alison has honed her expertise in financing apartments and mobile home parks, adding her personal touch to every deal. Alison's honesty and aptitude for clear communication make her the go-to advisor, always ready to present a menu of tailored options that empower clients to make the best decisions. Growing up in the sun-drenched landscapes of Palm Desert as the daughter of a builder, she pursued her higher education at Pepperdine University, where she fell in love with the coast. Her professional influence extends beyond her immediate work; as an influential board member of NAIOP SoCal, she was honored as the 2024 Member of the Year, and she keeps her finger on the pulse of local apartment organizations. Beyond the boardroom, Alison is a whirlwind of energy, actively involved with her church and mentorship programs, giving back to the community and nurturing future leaders. At home, Alison is the ringleader of a lively household, happily married and raising three spirited daughters. She loves blending her passion for travel and the great outdoors with family escapades.
